Senate and House.

Work of Both Branches of Congress.

THE RACE QUESTION ONCE MORE.

It is Debated in the Senate, But No Action Taken—A Resolution Offered in the House to Recognize Brazil—The Tariff Act Amended—Other Washington Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The house bill to simplify the laws respecting the collections of customs was ordered printed and referred to the committee on finance in the senate yesterday.

Mr. Hoar presented resolutions recently adopted at a mass meeting in Boston, in relation to the cruel deprivation of colored people in the southern states of the right to take part in elections. Referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

The adverse report of the committee on foreign relations in regard to the establishment of a republic in Cuba was, on motion of Mr. Call, placed on the calendar, so that he may hereafter address the senate on the subject.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Chandler, calling on the attorney general for the report of the United States marshal for the northern district of Mississippi, concerning the maltreatment of Henry J. Faunce, at Aberdeen, Miss., the roofer, who cut down the effigy of Secretary Proctor and was afterwards whipped and driven out of town for so doing, was taken up for consideration and Mr. Walthall addressed the senate.

He insisted that congress had no jurisdiction over the subject, but felt warranted in saying that all that was simply the wanton conduct of a few persons, and that it was disapproved by the community in which it occurred. Speaking for himself and the people of Mississippi and the south, he condemned unqualifiedly and unreservedly the outrage on the secretary of war and on Faunce. Mr. Walthall then discussed federal interference in state elections and the race question. The professed purpose of federal interference was to secure fair counting of negro votes, but it really meant to cut it vote for the Republican party. He deprecated the passage of such a law, it would lead to bitter strife, a revival of antagonisms, and an interruption to relations that now promised good to both races. Mr. Walthall criticized all proposed remedies for race troubles, including deportation and disfranchisement as impracticable and impossible.

Senator Chandler advocated the resolution. He thought the times were full of the senate could not investigate such wrongs and was to be told it had not the right to do so.

Mr. Ingalls said he had no comment to make on the eulogy pronounced on the people of Aberdeen by Mr. Walthall, except to say that it was in evidence that 300 or 400 of them stood by when Faunce was castigated, without a word of protest or any attempt to interfere.

Mr. George challenged senators on the Republican side to point out a clause in the constitution which authorized the Federal government to take jurisdiction of crimes committed within a state and not against the laws of the state.

Mr. Hoar thought that in this case it was not necessary to enter on that debatable ground. It was within the constitutional powers of the senate to inquire into every transaction that took place within the limits of the country.

Mr. Reagan condemned the outrage at Aberdeen, but denied the right of the government to take cognizance of it.

A message from the president transmitting a report from the secretary of state concerning the Chinese, was presented and referred, and after a short executive session the senate at 4:30 p. m. adjourned.

House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the house, Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, offered a resolution, which was referred, congratulating the people of Brazil in their just and peaceful assumption of the powers, duties and responsibilities of self-government, as shown by their assumption of self-government, declaring that the United States of Brazil is recognized by the United States of America as a free, sovereign and independent republic, and providing that the president shall give proper notice of this recognition to the president of the United States of Brazil.

Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, from ways and means committee, reported, and the house passed without division, a bill amending the tariff act of 1883, so as to impose a duty of 50 per cent. upon silk ribbons. The bill is simply for the purpose of correcting an error in the act of 1883.

Mr. Lehlback, from civil service reform committee, reported a resolution, which was adopted, directing the committee to investigate the charges of evasion preferred against the civil service commission, and to examine and report upon the practical working of the system.

The house then, in committee of the whole, proceeded to consider the bill appropriating $1,500,000 for the erection of three United States prisons, and for the imprisonment of United States prisoners.

After some discussion followed, the committee rose, reported the bill to the house and it was passed.

Motions were made and carried to reconsider and lay motion to reconsider on the table, but no quorum voting on the latter motion, the house without further action adjourned.

Didn't Know Newspaper Enterprise.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Considerable surprise and dissatisfaction was expressed at the British legation yesterday over the publication of the extradition treaty. It is, of course, an unusual thing for so important a treaty to be made public before it has been discussed or ratified by the senate. The secretary of the legation said that he could not imagine how it had gotten out. He supposed if all the members of the senate were provided with copies it would be a difficult matter to keep it away from the public, but, nevertheless, it was a violation of custom and good faith to make such a matter public prematurely. They had no idea it would get out so soon and regretted it exceedingly.

Senate's Secret Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The senate in secret session yesterday confirmed the nominations of Marco B. Gargas, collector of customs at Cuyahoga, O.; Theodore F. Shepard, United States attorney for the eastern district of Michigan; James R. Clarke, marshal of the United States for the western district of Michigan, and Lewis G. Palmer, United States attorney for the western district of Michigan.

An Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The president sent to the senate yesterday the nomination of Samuel Bailey, Jr., of Ohio, to be assistant treasurer of the United States at Cincinnati. Mr. Bailey is one of the best known persons of Hamilton county, and is about 50 years of age. He is now a resident of Glendale and is president of the Cincinnati Transfer company. He was elected sheriff of the county in 1881, and was at that time a leading politician in the Fifth ward. He is a prominent member of the Blaine club.

Worse Than Cholera.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—United States Consul Turner, at Cadiz, Spain, in a dispatch to the state department, states that United States Minister Palmer is sick with the dengue fever which is prevalent in that country. The disease he represents as of a very malignant character, and the death rate at Madrid, Barcelona and Seville is stated to exceed that caused by cholera when that disease is epidemic.

A Valuable Sword.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Secretary Proctor has, under authority of the recent act of congress, purchased of the heirs of the late Gen. George H. Shield for $10,000, the sword worn by the general during the late war. The sword, which is a handsome one, will be placed among the relics in the war department.

Exhibition Postponed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Consul General Munson, at Frankfort-on-the-Main, informs the state department that the electrical exhibition which it was designed to hold at Frankfort-on-the-Main, commencing June 1, 1890, has been postponed until May 1, 1891.

A RIVER DISASTER.

An Ohio River Steamer Sunk Just Below the Louisville Falls.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28.—The steamboat Ohio, of the Cincinnati and Memphis Packet company, Capt. John Myers, Memphis to Cincinnati, was sunk at the foot of the falls at 11 o'clock last night, while coming up the falls channel, in charge of Falls Pilot Varble, and assisted by his towboat, the Transit. When turning the bend at the entrance to the "chute" the Ohio struck part of the submerged foundation of an old mill. Pilot Varble ran the boat to the Kentucky shore, and her nineteen passengers and crew were landed in safety. She now lies on her side in eleven feet of water. In addition to her passengers the Ohio had a very large cargo of general merchandise, most of which was consigned to Cincinnati and upper Ohio points. The most of the cargo will be a total loss. Varble is the oldest and is credited with being the most skillful pilot on the falls.

What a Robber's Cave Contained.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Jan. 28.—Country stores and postoffices along the borders of the Cherokee nation have been burglarized for a year past, and many persons have been robbed on the public highways of the Cherokee nation. All efforts to identify or capture the robbers failed. A hunter accidentally found a cave in the mountain a few days ago, and was surprised to find it well stored with a variety of goods and miscellaneous supplies, guns, saddles, firearms and the like. He saw at once he had stumbled upon a robber's cave, and so reported to the authorities. The place was searched, and nearly three wagonloads of stolen goods found, among them a quantity of postage stamps and 900 decks of cards. A deputy was placed at the cave on guard, and captured Gordon Sanford and Lewis Maddox when they came to the rendezvous. Both are young white men who stood well in the community where they live, and were not suspected.

Railroad Traffic Impeded.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 28.—The effects of the heavy snowfall upon railroad traffic during the past month has been unprecedented in the experience of old railroad men in this section. The inconvenience to the traveling public and the public in general has been great. Mails arrive over the Union Pacific railroad from seven to ten days late. The Colorado and Oregon railroad has run no trains for two weeks, and the Northern Pacific is also in very bad shape. A great deal of travel, in consequence of this bad condition of our roads, is being diverted over the Canadian Pacific, who appear not to find any difficulty in keeping their road open and running trains on time.

A Valuable Present.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 28.—The heirs of J. J. Albright yesterday presented to the city of Scranton for public library purposes a plot of land, 110 by 167 feet, upon which a suitable building will be erected by the grantees. The structure will be known as the Albright Memorial building, and together with the value of the land will be worth $100,000.

Seven Persons Killed.

Twenty Others Were Seriously Injured.

SEVERAL MAY PROVE FATAL.

The Fast Express on the Air Line Division of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad Jumps the Track on a Trestle Sixteen Miles North of Indianapolis—List of the Dead and Injured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 28.—The first express on the Air line division of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad was wrecked at the trestle over Wilson's creek, sixteen miles north of this city, shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Seven persons lost their lives, and over twenty were injured, several of the latter fatally.

The train left Chicago at 11:55 o'clock Sunday night, and was due in this city at 8:30 yesterday morning. Good time was being made when the truck of the tender jumped the track, just as the edge of the trestle was reached. In this condition it was dragged over the trestle which was safely cleared by the engine, baggage car and smoker, the ladies coach and the sleeper making up the rest of the train.

The pulling of the trucks across the trestle is supposed to have unlocked the rails, and when the ladies' coach reached the center, the structure gave way and it fell with a crash to the creek below, a distance of forty feet. The sleeper followed and completed the destruction of the ladies' coach by falling upon it. It then rolled to one side.

Almost simultaneously with the falling of the first coach, it took fire and added the terror of the flames to the awful condition of the women, children and men, who had been caught and wedged in the wreck.

After clearing the trestle the baggage car and smoker also left the track, and rolled down the embankment. Everything was in the greatest confusion, and the cries of the persons pinioned in the burning wreck of the day car seemed to paralyze those who had escaped without injury. It was several minutes before any assistance was attempted, and then it was too late to be effective, as the flames had enveloped the entire car, and many of the voices that had cried in piteous tones for help were already silenced by the devouring flames.

As soon as the flames had subsided the work of recovering the dead bodies began. The train which leaves here for Chicago at 3:30 a. m. reached the scene soon after the accident and was immediately connected with a relief train, the passengers aiding those on the ill-fated train in the work of recovering the bodies of the dead and caring for the injured. The charred bodies were taken from the wreck, and arranged alongside of each other on the bank, presenting a most horrible sight.

The list of the dead is as follows:

Mrs. Nellie Eubank, of Broad Ripple, Ind., burned to death, 33 years old.
C. O. Fleming, of Frankfort, Ind., skull crushed, 35 years old, died after rescue.

Mrs. Octavia Oldham and her two twin girls, 2 years old, of Sheridan, Ind., burned to death.

Mrs. Mary Hoover, of Horton, Ind., burned to death.

An unknown woman supposed to be a Mrs. Cox, of Indianapolis, who had been visiting her brother at Westfield.

The injured are:

Engineer Windell Swope, slightly hurt.
A. L. Clark, traveling man, of Westfield, Ind., cut in forehead.

Henry Shusley, jeweler, of Indianapolis, cut on head and right leg, fractured.

Otto Gresham, son of Judge Gresham, of Indianapolis, body cut and bruised; not seriously hurt.

Abe Angle, conductor, cut on head, arms sprained, and believed to be injured internally.

Charles Angle, son of the conductor, bad cut on leg, cut on forehead, and perhaps injured internally.

B. C. White, of Indianapolis, cut on head in several places and body badly bruised.

Julius D. Pearson, of Sheridan, Ind., traveling man, badly cut on the head and injured internally.

G. W. Stingle, of Rossville, Ind., right arm broken and body bruised.

Lewis Nauman, of Cleveland, commercial traveler, right leg injured, head, face and arms considerably bruised.

Henry Miller, of New York, traveling man, hurt about the head and large gash in region of each temple; fears of internal injuries, supposed to be fatally hurt.

Express Messenger Munger, of Indianapolis, injured internally by the safe falling on him.

Henry Clarke, of Englewood, Ind., badly bruised about the head and breast.

Horace Carey, of Westfield, spinal injuries.

Thomas Cadwallader, of Chicago, severely bruised.

Jackson, colored porter, Pullman car, injured about the head and hips.

W. B. Huggersoll, of Chicago, head and face bruised.

George Good, of Frankfort, Ind., slide hurt.

Cowles, traveling salesman of Chicago, collar bone broken and scalp cut.

Miss May Fitzpatrick, of Indianapolis, spinal injuries and head cut; condition serious.

George Miller, of Frankfort, Ind., leg hurt, but not badly.

Mrs. Ella Douglass, of Frankfort, Ind., injured internally.

J. E. Attizer, of Chicago, badly bruised and cut in face.

As the train bearing the wounded stopped at the station, the crowd became denser and more excited, and the police found it impossible to keep them from boarding the car. Frantic men attempted to climb on the cars to look for the missing friends, but were pushed back. Women with tear-stained faces, stood with clasped hands and watched each injured person taken out.

When Conductor Angle with his pale face swathed in bandages was placed in a carriage his daughter clasped him about the neck and sobbed violently, applying all endearing names to him. Another man, whose name could not be ascertained, fought his way through the police guard and gazed at each wounded person, moaning, "Oh, Eddie, Eddie." He appeared to be searching for his son, and when a friend assured him that the boy was not on the train the father became almost frantic lest his boy was left among the unidentified dead at Carmel.

Engineer Swope, one of the oldest men on the road, was taken to his home on Pine street, suffering, it is feared, with a fractured skull. A number of traveling men, more or less hurt, were taken to the hotel in carriages. One fine looking man had a big gash across his face that will disfigure him for life. Another carried his arm in a blood-stained sling. One man, as he stepped from the car, exclaimed, "Thank God, I escaped without a scratch; never mind me; look after others."

SOME brilliant member of the Legislature has introduced a bill "to prevent life insurance agents from giving rebates," or in other words, knocking off part of their commission as an inducement to secure business. What has the Legislature got to do with an agent's commission? It is his money and he certainly has a right to do with it as he pleases. If the Legislature can't find something else to consider of more importance to the people, let it adjourn and quit frittering away the people's money.

ROSETTES.

"Free Lance" Tells What It Has Found Such an Expression Means.

(Communicated.)

During my thirty odd years residence in this community there has been a system in vogue among certain classes of men of calling certain others "rosettes". The term (not having heard it prior to my coming here), struck me as so peculiar and was in such common use that it aroused my curiosity and I determined to find out, if possible, what constituted a "rosette". After years of study of the subject I have come to the conclusion that it means a man who is clean, morally and physically, who is enough interested in his own welfare and that of his neighbors to have some pride in the exterior appearance of the town; who is so slow and so far behind the times in his ideas of what constitutes enjoyment, that when he wants to "paint the town" he selects a color that is becoming to the complexion of his wife and children; in other words selects a pleasure that they can enjoy with him. If he builds a home he builds it for them to live in, making a handsome addition to the city, and presenting to the community the spectacle of a happy, united family in a comfortable home, in an open prominent place where the example may be seen and acknowledged.

If he wants to invest his money, he remembers where, and how, it was made and who helped to make it, and invests it here where all classes of business receive some benefit from his so doing, instead of setting others, who have less means to invest, an example of superior sagacity and public spirited, enterprising business ability by running around over the country in the wake of paper booms.

If you doubt my having found the right definition of the word, go study the indications in the surroundings and peculiarities of the two latest exponents of my "rosette" principles—the Hall boys and the Cox boys. You all know them. Oh, yes, and, they know you too, and what is better still understand you and are ready and willing to help build you as you helped to build them. Honest industry, faithful attention to business interest, integrity and clean morals—such is the foundation they built on. They know how weak a foundation the poker deck, the dice box, the crap game, the whiskey bottle &c. &c. make.

There is another curious fact connected with this community. The real boom is here and has been for twenty years, but the fact is concealed and its progress retarded by the structure built over and before it by these smart nicknaming friends of ours. If you don't believe the boom has been here, and is still here, look at the already established industries and interests in our city and study their histories. Ask the "rosettes" like Mr. James Barbour, Mr. Thomas Wells, Mr. W. B. Mathews, Mr. Sam Poyntz, Mr. Robert Cochran, Mr. Lud Mills, Mr. Hiram Collins, Mr. Lane, Mr. Carnahan, Mr. Zweigart, Mr. Wm. Wormald, the Rosenau Bros., the Miner Bros, Mr. Jno. Hunt, the Owens, Mr. Henry Barkley, Mr. Geo.

T. Hunter, Mr. Davis, Mr. John Pearce, our faithful druggists and other light chaff of the same sort for a short sketch, to be published day after day as they are sent in, of their start and development of their business interests here, and whether to-day they have less or more business to attend to and larger or smaller profits at the end of each year. Six lines from each and a half-column devoted to their use in each day's issue would tell the story, unless "Free Lance's" long-winded contributions force you to show your liberality by increasing the size of, or adding a supplement to your paper. If you will work at the real boom it will accomplish that without the Free Lance.

One more feature of this peculiar community and then I am through for to-day. There has been a hue and cry raised for the last year or two about the young men who go away. The young men who go away! Well, what of it? As a rule, they take nothing but themselves. Our accommodating nicknamers have attended to their own interests well, and see that the young men have no money to take, or very little, as shining lights. We can dispense with the services of most of them, as but few of them ever contributed anything tangible to the interest of the community, and only worked enough to be able to comply with the demands made upon them by their friends, the nicknamers. What is better still, every vacancy they have created has been immediately filled by an incoming "rosette," such as Hamlet Sharpe, Peter Parker, Ed Martin and others too numerous to mention.

Editor Bulletin—If it is true, as no doubt it is, that the "Owens Row" is occupied by low colored prostitutes, whose conduct and that of their associates depreciates the value of adjacent property, there is abundance of law already on the statute book to furnish a remedy for the evil. There is no need of further legislation, either by State or city. Let those interested see that the owner of the property is dealt with as the law directs. That is all that is necessary.

tities floating on the water and in pools, and when used in lamps gave a more brilliant light than the coal oil of the

THE STATE'S LAW-MAKERS.

Paragraphs of Interest Gleaned From the Proceedings of the Legislature.

Nearly 400 bills have been introduced in the House up to this time.

The House has passed a bill to require grand juries to inquire into the lists of pauper idiots.

An act to remove the State Capital to "Hamilton Place," near Georgetown, was laid on the table.

The bill to increase the pay of Sheriffs to $2 a day for waiting on courts was adversely reported and defeated.

The attempt of the lottery companies to stave off an investigation was defeated,
and they will have to show down.

The Senate cigarette bill was tabled
by the House through some shrewd parliamentary work of Mr. Settle, of Owen.

A bill is pending to prevent life insurance agents from giving rebates, or in other words, knocking off part of their commissions as an inducement to secure business.

Senator Wortham's bill to repeal the act requiring the Assessor's reports to be copied by County Clerks, was reported favorably by the committee, at whose request it was ordered printed. Action upon it is deferred.

Senator Wortham's bill punishing the carrying of a concealed pistol to any election or public or private gathering with a fine of from $50 to $200 and imprisonment from one to six months, received a favorable report from the Committee on General Statutes.

The Senate has passed a bill amending the General Statutes so as to make it an assault to draw, or point, at a person, an unloaded pistol. Also to make it a felony to shoot at any person from ambush, punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to ten years.

Senator Dickerson's bill amending the law for government of the penitentiary, was passed by a vote of 27 to 5. It extends the provisions of the parole law so that the Commissioners may parole as many prisoners as they desire, instead of only 5 per cent. of the whole number, as at present.

The bill requiring corporations and persons engaged in mining or manufacturing in Kentucky to pay their employees semi-monthly in lawful money of the United States, instead of brass checks, cards or scrip, good for supplies at the stores of the company, is a special order for Thursday.

Mr. W. M. Smith, of Graves, introduced a bill to amend the law on larceny.
He raises the grade of grand larceny to the theft of $20 or more, and provides that males stealing articles of less value shall be publicly whipped by the Sheriff, who is directed to lay on from ten to thirty lashes, according to the judgment of the court. Females guilty of like offenses are to be imprisoned in the county jail.

A First-Class Company.

"Enoch Arden" by Newton Beers is not only marked by scenic and musical accessories worthy of Tennyson's great poem, but is also enlivened by special features in harmony with the story of the period, when the old-fashioned sports and pastimes of merry England were in their full flower. The beautiful drama is also presented with an unusually strong cast.
Mr. Beers will appear in the title role.
He is a recognized leading actor who can be relied upon for a picturesque rendering of the double-sided part, and for an artistic contrast between the bluff, hearty bridegroom, sailing away full of hope and enthusiasm, and the broken-hearted wanderer, gladly welcoming death in sight of his old hearthstone. Miss Katharine Crego, who plays Annie Lee, has played leading parts in prominent combinations, and has won commendations in difficult roles from critical audiences. She has made a pronounced hit as the tempesttossed heroine of this drama. The minor characters of the drama proper are all well filled. Mr. Beers appears at the opera house next Thursday night, and a crowded house will undoubtedly greet this first-class play and company.

Death of George Wormald, Sr.

George Wormald, Sr., whose critical illness has been noticed several times recently, died late last evening at his home in Bellevue, near Newport. Deceased was a native of England, but came to this country in early life with his father, Jacob Wormald, Sr., and spent most of his days in Maysville. He was about seventy years of age. His wife and several children survive him, among them Jacob Wormald, of the West End.
Wm. Wormald, the coal merchant, is the deceased's only surviving brother.

The remains will be brought here for burial. Funeral services at the Church of the Nativity to-morrow at 11 a. m.

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE LEATHER!

The author of this proverb is unknown. In a spelling-book much used in our grandmothers' days will be found the following lines, which perhaps gave the origin of it:

A town feared a siege and held consultation,
Which was the best means of fortification;
A grave, skilful mason said, in his opinion,
Nothing like stone would secure the dominion;

A carpenter said, though that was well spok'd,
It was better, by far, to defend it with oak;
A currier, wiser than both these together,
Said, try what you please, "There's nothing like leather."

If the honest old currier was alive to-day he would be surprised at the many kinds of leather made—made solely for cheapness, without reference to service or durability—a snare and a disappointment to the wearer. His advice would be to buy that which is ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE.

Railway News.

About twenty-four trains now pass over the C. and O. every day.

Some of the C. and O.'s employees at this point have received notice that their services will not be needed after next Saturday, when the K. C. will return to the old depot.

The Vanceburg Sun says: "Work will be resumed this week on the Kinnick-onick and Kentucky Freestone Railroad, which will extend from a point a little below the mouth of Kinney to the Boone furnace tract, about eight miles to the south. It will open up one of the best pieces of country in the world, rich in timber and stone. The town of Freestone is already laid out and is situated on one of the finest sights imaginable between the C. and O. railroad and the Ohio river, near the mouth of Kinney. There are several manufacturing establishments ready to move to Freestone as soon as the town is well under way."

The C. and O. isn't to be out done by any road. The company, so an exchange says, has decided to still further improve the facilities of its limited express trains and add to their conveniences by introducing a stenographer and type-writer for the service of the passengers. A young man, expert in both branches of his profession, will be put on each train between New York and Cincinnati to take the dictation and transcribe on the type-writer
the correspondence of passengers who desire to avail themselves of his services.
By this means, a business or professional man can attend to his correspondence en route. A compartment will be fitted up on each train for this purpose, and letters will be mailed from the train as they are written. This novel and convenient arrangement will go into effect in a short time.

successor to Senator Ashburn, deceased, John M. Pattison, of Mifflin, was chosen on the a bit on the score of partisanship likely our opinions won't please some.

A Terrible Voyage.

The Steamer Paris Almost Lost at Sea.

CROSSING THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

Seas Such as Old Sailors Had Never Encountered—The Vessel's Wheel Breaks, Leaving Her Almost Helpless—An Undecided Captain—Two Great Dangers to Be Faced.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Dieppe and New Haven steamer Paris is now lying in Dover bay. The vessel left Dieppe shortly after midnight on Saturday on a return voyage to New Haven. She had about fifty passengers on board, of whom a little more than one-third were ladies. It was blowing a heavy gale at the time she left the harbor, but it was not thought to be sufficient to prevent the vessel crossing.

The boat, however, had not left the harbor more than half an hour when it was found that there was a tremendous sea running in the channel, and the wind had increased terrifically, for the harbor had been sheltered by the land. The wind was nearly west with a point or two of north in it, the wind in this direction throwing the whole weight of the sea, which is described as terrific, on to the French shore, and consequently was dead against the vessel, which from this time for the next twenty-four hours was doomed to undergo the most severe testing and frightful voyage.

Having got so far to sea nothing could be done but keep steadily ahead, which Capt. Sharp resolved to do. Indeed there is no doubt that the captain's action and cool judgment throughout kept the vessel from foundering. Steaming slowly across the channel in the fearful sea, the vessel sometimes rolled almost on her beam ends, but nothing serious happened until nearly 4 o'clock. The vessel was then about thirty miles from Dieppe, when suddenly a great, crushing noise was heard in the starboard paddle box.

The worst fears were now entertained and the engines were stopped in order to ascertain the cause of the sound. It was already apparent that the paddle wheel had failed, but the sea was running so high that an adequate examination was impossible. It was discovered, however, that the paddle box had been ripped up, and, from the peculiar indications, it was evident that some of the floats and gearing of the wheel which directs the floats had been torn away by the terrific weight of the sea, which washed up into the paddle box.

The position was a most serious one, which the passengers fully realized. The captain then consulted the officers on the dangerous position of the vessel. It was found that by driving the engines some disaster might happen to the ship, and she might founder, while, on the other hand, she was at the mercy of a fearful sea and the violence of a gale blowing dead on the French coast, where not so very long ago a sister ship of the Paris, namely, the Victoria, came to a disastrous end. The ship was literally helpless, and drifted nearer and nearer to land until Cape Griznez was in dangerous proximity.

Two courses were left open to the captain, either the vessel must irretrievably go ashore and founder, the sea dashing tremendously high along the shore, or the engines must be used, and the risk which had previously been thought too great must now be chanced. The starting of the engines by the chief engineer caused the greatest anxiety. It was 3 o'clock when the starting of the engines, at the slowest possible speed, was followed by a terrible crash, which startled everybody on board, even the crew. The crushing noise came from the damaged wheel, the whole of which is made of steel.

In this way a night of awful suspense was spent in the channel, the vessel being drifted rather than propelled. Just before daybreak the lights of South Portland were descried, and two hours later land was visible. The captain eventually found his way into Dover bay without the aid of a tug, and put his vessel alongside the admiralty pier. Crowds of people assembled to witness her enter the bay and the landing of the passengers, who were sent to London by special train.

The sailors, some of whom have been crossing the channel twenty or thirty years, describe the voyage as awful, stating that they had never seen such seas.

The British steamer Anaranth, Capt. Saunders, at Liverpool from Norfolk, reports that one of the men having charge of the cattle on board was washed overboard and drowned. Fifty-one cattle were lost, and many others were injured. The Hamburg-American line steamer Dania, Capt. Barends, which sailed from Hamburg yesterday, will take the Suez passengers and cargo from Southampton.

Youngest Widow in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Dora Ickes, who lives with her mother here, is probably the youngest widow in the state. She is a mere child, only 14 years old, while her husband was nearly three times as old. Three weeks ago yesterday she eloped and was married at Ashland, Ky., with Ickes, who was an employee of her mother. He died yesterday afternoon from pneumonia superinduced by la grippe. Local paper condemned Ickes severely at the time of the elopement. Her maiden name was Winteringer, and her neighbors say she wore short dresses only a few months ago.

Cleveland Brewer's Syndicate.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 28.—The English syndicate which has been negotiating with local breweries made a contract yesterday for the purchase of the Schlatter Brewing company's interest for $1,375,000; the Gehring brewery for $1,000,000 and the Stoppel brewery for $285,000. Securities will be placed on the market.

Preferred Death to a Trial.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 28.—William Nervison, who confessed to stealing $75,000 while employed by the United States Express company at this place, attempted to shoot himself at his home, at Coldwater, Mich., preferring death to a trial for embezzlement.

DESTITUTION, IN DAKOTA.

People Reported as Actually Going Mad from Want—No Food for Stock.

HURON, S. Dak., Jan. 28.—There are hundreds of people sitting in the farm houses on these snow-covered plains going mad from want. A correspondent visited many farmers near Huron and reports that there is a pressing need for relief, as starvation is staring hundreds of poor in the face. One farmer, expressed the belief that he was much better off than many others, said: "We have something to eat—hominy and a little pork. It won't last long, and we have to be careful of the coal, but the worst is the stock. We haven't got a thing to feed the horses and cattle. Can't sell them, can't feed them, and stock is going to die by the thousands unless we get something for them to eat."

J. S. Oliver, superintendent of the Dakota Central division of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, at Huron, said: "It is all true that you have heard. People are undoubtedly suffering for necessities, but this road will see that no one freezes. It is to the interest of the company that the people stay here. They are brave, and their present condition is no fault of their own. The facts have not been advertised as extensively as they should have been. I believe you will find things still worse northwest of here."

The Report Confirmed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The report of the destitution in South Dakota was further confirmed by interviews with three railway officials, who are in a position to know the facts. The three are all connected with the Chicago and Northwestern railway—C. H. Knapp, first assistant general freight agent; C. E. Simonds, land commissioner, and F. R. Crandon, tax commissioner. According to these gentlemen, the majority of the sufferers are confined to a strip of country fifty miles wide, and extending on both sides of the railroad from Harrard to Aberdeen.

Mr. Crandon, who has just returned from a trip to Dakota, said the crop failure and consequent privation is in probably fifteen different counties, but, with the exception of Miner, no entire county failed to produce some grain. In Mercer county the crops had not been good for several years, and the farmers last spring mortgaged their farms for seed. Even this they do not recover from the harvest, and they may consequently lose their interest in the property.

The residents of Miner county are, therefore, in greater want than most of their neighbors. Citizens of many of the districts where the crops failed are in need of food, clothing and fuel—all necessities of life. A large number of others, however, will not require help for the reason that, while they harvested small crops last year, they had good harvests the year before, and therefore have a little something left to tide them over the trouble.

Asked what organization had been effected for the relief of these people, Mr. Crandon said that so far as he was aware, it was entirely local in the various towns and counties. "They send out accredited agents to solicit aid," he added, "and the Northwestern company forwards the contributions free of charge. The company has endeavored to reach all who were actually in need of help within its territory, relying upon the judgment of the county commissioners to properly distribute the articles."

Coal has been one of the chief items, coming liberally from the coal mines in Iowa.

"Free transportation will be continued so long as there is necessity for this charity," declared Mr. Crandon. "Officials of the company, in connection with the governor of South Dakota, were at Minneapolis yesterday arranging with grain dealers to supply seed wheat to the destitute farmers. This wheat will be transported and distributed without charge at the proper time."

AN INFLUX OF SOCIALISTS

From Germany May Be Expected to Follow the Reichstag Elections.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—"You will soon see this country overrun with Socialists expelled from Germany in case Bismarck and Kaiser William have their way at the elections to the reichstag next month," says George Werther, one of the leading lights of the New York Socialists.

"Though on the surface the defeat in the German parliament of the anti-Socialist law seemed an audacious blow against the iron chancellor when his pet bill was buried by an overwhelming majority, later evidences show that Bismarck himself inspired his henchmen to kill the measure rather than suffer it to become a law emasculated of its most salient feature, the right to expatriate every Socialist agitator or sympathizer. "The struggle will now commence in dead earnest," says Herr Gruenz, of the Volkszeitung. "The German government party is going to make 'Down with Socialists' their cry in the coming campaign."

Conservative German-Americans look with considerable solicitude to the immediate political developments in the fatherland, as they are not anxious to have an influx here of embittered adherents of the social revolutionary doctrines.

The Snow Blockade.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 28.—The snow blockade on the Rio Grande between Alamosa and Durango was raised on Saturday. Yesterday the snow again fell and drifted in the cuts, compelling all trains to stop. It is not probable that the road will not be opened for several days. The South Park trains are delayed on Menasha hill with drifts fourteen feet deep.

Trap Shooting.

DAYTON, O., Jan. 28.—The first match of a series of forty, between the champion trap shooters of the east and the champions of the west, was shot here yesterday, and it resulted in a victory for west, by a score of 180 to 166 out of a possible 200. The match was at thirty single blue rocks and five pairs of doubles.

An Umbrella Thief Dosed.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 28.—Police Judge Young, of this city, evidently knows the aggravation of having umbrellas stolen, for he yesterday fined Henry Wilkin $50 and costs and sent him to jail for thirty days for taking an umbrella "by mistake."

Laughter in Different Keys.

People who laugh in a broad Latin "A" are open hearted, honest, fond of noisy comradery, but perhaps of volatile mood. Excessive, jerking laughter, however, is an evidence of vulgarity. Those laughing in a dry "A" are respectable, but little expansive, and a hard lot of people. When the Latin "E" prevails, there prevails also a phlegmatic, melancholy temper. Timorous, unsteady people, also those imbued with malignity, always laugh in a kind of swelling "I." Laughter in "O" is the utterance of proud, bold, imperative, somewhat bantering people. Beware of those who laugh in "oo" (o). They are traitors, haters, scorners.—New York Journal.

A Patriotic Scot.

Walter Scott tells the story of a blacksmith in the south of Scotland who disappeared from the range of vision of the great novelist and was found afterward practicing medicine in an English city. The astonished novelist asked the blacksmith if he knew anything about the healing art, and the latter acknowledged that he did not, but trusted mainly to "two simples—laudanum and calomel." "Simples with a vengeance," said Scott; "don't you kill more than you cure?" "Perhaps I do," returned the patriotic blacksmith, "but it will be a long time before I make up for the Scots that the English killed at Flodden."

Sugar Trusts at one time advanced $\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$, but did not fully maintain the advance.
